About Dr. Mace Braxton

Dr. Mace Braxton was renowned for an infectiously positive spirit and caring approach to patient and family care. He is credited with starting the cardiothoracic surgery program in Salina when he came to the community in 1998. Along with the growth of the heart program, Dr. Braxton believed deeply in continuing education for himself and staff demonstrating this through his support of the annual Cardiology Symposium, which was initiated in 2002 to provide continuing medical education for hospital staff and area physicians and nurses.

Following his untimely death in February 2008, the Salina Regional Health Foundation established a named endowment in Dr. Braxton's honor, to support the Cardiac Symposium and the heart program at Salina Regional Health Center.
