Salina Regional announces sale of St. John's hospital

(March 19, 2015) – Salina Regional Health Center announced today that it has completed the sale of the former St. John's hospital to an out-of-town developer.

The first structure in the complex, known as the Penn Campus, was built in 1914 and provided services until 2004, when most hospital functions moved to Salina Regional facilities in the 400 block of S. Santa Fe Avenue. The last hospital functions were transferred to other locations in 2011.

The sale includes the Medaille Center building, located on the northwest corner of the complex.

For confidentiality reasons, Salina Regional will have no other comment on the sale at this time.
